

About Custom Harvard Regalia Provided by The Harvard Coop

Our custom regalia is made by Oak Hall Industries, which manufactures everything in Salem, Virginia, USA.

The fabric is also made in the USA.

We are often asked to compare our custom regalia to a competitor's product, which is made overseas. There are substantial differences in the grade of fabric and finishes used - when compared to regalia made overseas, our custom gowns have superior fabric draping, much more generous fluting, and a softer, rich grade of velvet that is hand stitched. The sleeve on our Oak Hall gown is fully lined with a full, generous turned-under finish while the competitor's is gathered into a knit cuff.

The tams provided by Oak Hall are individually sized and truly custom with a fuller loft versus an adjustable "size range" and a flatter finish.

The Harvard Coop has sample gowns available for your viewing at our Harvard Square location. We understand that this is an important investment in your future and The Harvard Coop is happy to help answer any of your questions while you make your decision.

NOTE for 2017 graduates: The RENTAL crimson regalia provided by the Harvard Coop is purchase quality. Many graduates decide that they would like to own the regalia that they are wearing at commencement. If you are interested in purchasing the gown or hood you use for Commencement, you may do so at The Coop. The velvet tam & tassel are always yours to keep following the ceremony.

The cost of the gown is $634.50 and the hood is $121.50 (after Coop member discount). If you choose to purchase the gown and / or hood you have rented and worn on Commencement Day, we will refund the rental fee upon purchase.*
