Mending & Healing Series - Workshop 2: Mending the Past & Connecting Our Futures

Register here (limit 15 people)
Location: Gutman 404

Have some clothes or fabric you need to mend? Need a space for meditation, music, snacks, and conversations on bridging or repairing relationships? Join us for our second session, where we bring a multidisciplinary approach to mend the “holes” in our connections with ourselves, each other, and our physical belongings.

The session will include guided meditation, facilitated conversation around transformative relationships and productive conflict, and hands-on repair of various materials. Activities reflect the themes of repairing, rather than disposing of, our belongings and community. Our workshops weave together insights from thought leaders like Dr. Shawn Ginwright, Paulo Freire, and bell hooks, alongside interactive storytelling, reflection, and basic clothes mending practices.

Let's come together to repair, restore, and reimagine (and thank you to all those who came to our first session last month)! This event is hosted by the Identity, Power, Justice, and Education concentration, LDIT, and arts educators.

Series begins week of March 31

Understanding & Disrupting Whiteness & Racial Bias

Sign up here.

We warmly invite HGSE students to a learning space for those who want to understand and disrupt whiteness and their own biases around race. The purpose of this space is to build our collective capacity and commitment to antiracist action and resistance in the current moment.

Through reading, reflecting, creating, and committing, our time together will be focused on how white people can critically reflect and engage in antiracism given the ways in which we experience privilege and benefit from oppressive systems. We will focus on developing the skills to recognize, interrupt, and combat racism, as well as our ability to communicate the importance of this to our friends and family. We especially encourage white students to join us, but all identities are welcome to this student-initiated space!

We will meet in-person 4 times during Spring 2. We hope you'll be able to attend all four sessions, though welcome any level of engagement and attendance. If you are interested, please fill out this Google form, and we will be in touch!

These sessions are being offered as part of a student action project within the IPJE concentration.

Questions can be directed to Megan and Amelia.

Student Orations Competition for Harvard Commencement

Click here for more information including contest rules.

The Orations Competition is among the oldest and most treasured traditions associated with Harvard's Commencement.

Three students are chosen by a panel of judges to deliver, from memory, an address to the assembly of approximately 32,000, which includes members of the governing boards, honorary degree recipients, faculty, parents, alumni and of course: the graduates themselves.

About the orations

- The first of these orations is delivered in Latin by a graduating senior from the College;
- The second, in English, is also delivered by a graduating senior from the College; and
- The third is delivered by a degree candidate from the University's graduate or professional Schools.

Being selected as one of the three orators is regarded as one of the highest honors a student can achieve. While these orations originally involved a student defending their thesis, the range of topics has since expanded to reflect a variety of perspectives and themes related to Harvard and the global community.

ONGOING OPPORTUNITIES & RESOURCES

MHL Aware for Educators - 1-hour Training

Click here to register. Note: This is a new link this week, since last week's CGIStudent code didn't work.

The Problem: Despite recent state legislation requiring mental health education, a tremendous policy to practice gap remains. School communities are struggling with implementation, primarily due to a lack of knowledge and confidence about a topic that has traditionally never been included in the curriculum.

A Foundational Part of the Solution: The MHLC created a one-hour certification program called MHL Aware that offers foundational information about mental health literacy (MHL). This offers educators the knowledge and confidence they need to take the next steps toward effectively implementing MHL into their school communities.

This training is sponsored by Clinton Global Initiative Project for Pre-Service and Degree-Seeking School Professionals.

Attention HGSE Parents - Opportunities to Contribute to Child and Education Research!

Sign up here to express interest and learn more.

Calling all junior scientists! We know many of you are looking for ways to give back to the community - but time feels so short these days, especially with little ones to chase after. At the LEARN Labs of the Harvard Graduate School of Education, we understand these pressures (as we are parents, too)! That's why we've been developing new ways for parents and children to get involved in science. We are offering multiple opportunities for you and your children to participate in research activities both in local lab spaces or online – providing fun, enriching, and educational experiences with our trained scientists, typically alongside compensation for your family's time.

If you are interested, please consider signing up to be part of our participant database. This would mean that the information you provide will be stored in our electronic database for us to contact you about future studies that are relevant to your child's age group. Importantly, filling out this form does not mean that you have promised us to participate in any of our studies yet. After signing up, we may contact you to tell you more about what studies and activities we have available for you and your child.

Questions? Interested? Please feel free to contact us via email at learnlabs.harvard@gmail.com, or one of the scientists on-staff, Joseph Colantonio, to learn more about opportunities for your child to participate in child development research.

Prayer Space on the HGSE Campus

Longfellow 214 is a dedicated prayer space here on the HGSE campus. Recognizing that not all buildings are open during the weekends, Gutman 440 has been reserved as prayer space on Saturday and Sundays, during regular Library hours.

A 2nd Community Prayer Space is Now Available!

From now until March 31, all HGSE community members can access Read Hall 102 as an additional prayer space to our Longfellow Hall 214 room. Prayer mats and stones will be provided in late January. Only a Harvard ID is required to access, no further steps needed.
